Professional development is an imperative part of any organization. So many companies center their idea of professional development around the systems they have set in place. Although this is an important part of growing a business, the people who navigate those systems should be at the root of professional development.

Dr. Suttle believes that when you take the time to empower the individuals that make up an organization, you are making the best strides to grow the business. Dr. Suttle's unique approach to motivating staff is nothing less than amazing. Our staff was completely captivated by Dr. Suttle and his energy. His references of realistic circumstances made it easy to connect with him and to see how his ideas could be applied to daily life. Dr. Suttle's books, tools, and resources provide that oomph that we sometimes need to be "our best self."

Dr. Suttle made it a point to touch base with me on several occasions prior to our event to make certain we were on the same page. On the day of the event, Dr. Suttle showed up early, came prepared, and delivered a show-stopping workshop. He has remained in contact with me to check in and to be a point of reference. Our staff has requested Dr. Suttle for our next Pre-Service. We are eager to see what he has in store for us. We would recommend him to businesses of all kinds!
